FIFTEEN CARS ARE DERAILED

When Defective Rail Gives way. Cars Remain Upright and Contents are not Thrown out. No one Hurt.

Fifteen freight cars were derailed between Jack's Mountain and Iron Springs at 3.15 this morning when the top of a rail broke. The track was torn up some distance but little other damage was done as all the cars remained upright and none of their contents was spilled. Not even a coupling or hose was broken and no one was hurt.

The train was one of the heavy Port Covington freights and had slowed down to about eight miles an hour to cross the trestle near the water tank above Jack's Mountain, and this doubtless prevented a more serious accident as the cars were derailed on a heavy grade.

The train was quickly stopped and the engine, with the cars which remained on the tracks, came on through. Wrecking crews were summoned from Port Covington and Hagerstown but as the trouble occurred in a cut, work was found to be very difficult and it required many hours to get the cars back on the track and to get the track in shape again. About fifteen rail lengths of track were torn up and this also took considerable time.

Traffic was delayed for some hours and it was found necessary to transfer passengers.

TROLLEY TO FULTON

McConnellsburg is again in the line of having a chance to get on the railway map. Once more a trolley seems to be likely to come its way. Practical work is going forward looking to the construction of an electric line from Fort Loudon to that place.

The McConnellsburg Democrat tells that "eight years ago this enterprise was advocated and sufficient capital offered to complete the construction of same when the entire project was blocked by Governor Pennypacker refusing to grant a charter for reasons so flimsy that he was ashamed to tell them."

It appears that in the new scheme other parties have become interested and data is now being gathered as to the amount of traffic to be handled. With a view of getting it as accurately as possible the merchants and shipers in McConnellsburg and along the proposed line are co-operating with others by compiling such information as they have available. The engineering details are being worked out by an experienced consulting engineer of New Jersey, while the legal part is being looked after by local talent and a corporation lawyer. It is said the financial end is to be taken care of by Harrisburg and Pittsburgh capitalists.

DR. OWEN RAN INTO POLE

Says the Waynesboro Herald:—The Rev. Dr. S. W. Owen, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, Hagerstown, is one of the latest recruits to the rank of automobilists. A handsome car was delivered to Dr. Owen Thursday.

Robert Knodle delivered the car to Dr. Owen and after driving around the city a little Dr. Owen took the wheel. Although 73 years old Dr. Owen handled the car with great ease and skill for a few feet and he put on steam. If he had not hit a "phone pole he would have been going yet, and the same day he got it, too.

It is supposed that he turned the wheel the wrong way. The fenders were broken and bent, the sideboards stripped off, lanterns bent and battered and considerable damage done generally.

MRS. SEILHAMER ASPHYXIATED

Mother of Editor of Gettysburg Progress Found Dead in Room Filled with Gas. Discovery Made by Former Town Girl.

Mrs. George O. Seilhamer, mother of Alvin P. Seilhamer, editor of the old Gettysburg "Progress" and other local publications, was asphyxiated at her home in Chambersburg on Saturday morning. The discovery of her death was made by Mrs. Grace Seilhamer, wife of Alvin P. Seilhamer and formerly of this place.

With the asphyxiated woman at the time of her death were Mrs. Helen Muston and Mrs. Reuben Seilhamer, who were also almost dead from the coal gas fumes from a stove which caused the death of the other woman. They did not recover consciousness for some hours after they were found.

Mrs. George Seilhamer had been ill for a number of weeks with gangrene of one leg and recently had become so much worse that her case was considered hopeless and Mrs. Reuben Seilhamer and Mrs. Helen Muston had offered to sit up with the sick woman Mrs. Mus on was to go home at midnight and it was understood that she would call Mrs. Grace Seilhamer, who was worn with nursing and was taking a sleep. The idea was that when Mrs. Muston went home young Mrs. Seilhamer and Mrs. R. E. Seilhamer would continue the vigil.

Mrs. Grace Seilhamer got awake about 5.30 a. m., on Saturday, almost broad daylight, and at once felt that something must be wrong as she had not been called at midnight. She went into her mother-in-law's room and found the old lady dead in bed and in two chairs sat Mrs. Muston and Mrs. Reuben Seilhamer the former with her hat on as if ready to leave, both apparently asleep. The room was heavy with gas and sickening. The young matron gave the alarm and threw the windows open and in a very short time six doctors were at the home working to save the living.

For a while it was a question if the three women were not all dead or doomed but eventually there became reason to hope that the two yet alive could be saved, although they did not regain consciousness until afternoon and were both close to death.

In the room where Mrs. G. O. Seilhamer was in bed was a coal stove, which it is said had never given any trouble before. Through a partly open door it threw off the poisonous carbonic acid gas and the fact that for hours it had impregnated the air of the room with this toxic vapor makes it all the more remarkable that all three women are not dead.

DOE GAMBOLED IN MEADOW

A good sized doe came down from the mountain, Friday afternoon, and disported herself for a while in the meadow on the D. Y. Snowberger farm near Readsides.

The doe advanced to within a hundred yards of the house and did not seem to be alarmed by her proximity to the abode of men and women.

When she had gamboled about for awhile she went back to the mountain, leaping slowly and apparently in enjoyment of her little trip.

It is thought she came down from the mountain to feed off the wheat in some of the fields on the Snowberger's farm.

ALMOST BURNED OUT

Robert Rouzer, of Guernsey, had a very narrow escape with his barn last Thursday. In the morning when on his way to the barn he saw smoke escaping from the cracks of the building and hurrying off he found the stock in an uproar in the fire and smoke. The fire is supposed to have been started by the carelessness of a tramp in the back end of the cow stable. Every thing was burned out under the cattle and some of the cattle severely burned. The barn being tightly closed and also the hay hods and trap doors is all that saved the barn.

ARREST BANK PRESIDENT

Kansas Financier and Son Accused of $90,000 Forgeries.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—Byron L. Church, president of the Holyrood State bank, at Holyrood, Kan., was arrested here. A special examiner discovered evidences of forgeries to cover alleged shortages in the bank's funds estimated at more than $90,000.

Ray Church, aged twenty-six years, a son, was arrested with his father, out was released soon afterwards when the police were notified that there was no charge against the young man.

Church's other son, M. E. Church, and F. W. Thomas, officers of the bank, are being sought by the officers.

Following the discovery of the shortage it is learned that the bank was completely reorganized without the depositors realizing that anything was wrong. The bank has never been closed, and it is stated now to be in a prosperous condition.

Bank Commissioner J. N. Dolley, who ordered the arrest, said that when the bank was examined it was found that every cent of the $100,000 of deposits had disappeared. He apprised the directors and ordered them to make the loss good. This they did. The affairs of the institution were then turned over to another bank. Instructions were then given to arrest President Church and his son, the cashier.

It is claimed the losses were due to a former cashier, who had speculated on the board of trade with the funds of the bank.

BILL GETS A BUGUS BILL

Father's Cherished Wedding Gift Only a Confederate Note.

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 28. — After William Kitten, Jr., was married, his father, William Kitten, was so pleased that he determined to do something handsome by the son. "Bill," said he, "I've been saving this money for you for a long time. Six years ago I put this bill away, knowing that the time would come when you would need it. Now the time has come. Here is a $100 bill; take it and buy some furniture for your new home."

The newly-married young man took the bill and went out to buy furniture, but was arrested for trying to pass counterfeit money. The bill was of a Confederate issue.

"Counterfeit?" exclaimed Kitten, Sr. "Why, I've been saving that money for years for a wedding present to Bill."

WHOLE TOWN RAISING HOGS

Meyersdale, Pa., Lured by High Price of Porkers.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 28. — With hogs selling at $10 a hundred weight, Meyersdale has gone into the pork raising business. A special meeting of the town council repealed an ordinance prohibiting the raising or keeping of hogs within the borough limits.

More than a thousand sites were built and the country district scoured for half-grown pigs. Meanwhile the representative of the state health department has taken the matter up and threatens to enforce the anti-hog ordinance despite the action of councils. Meyersdale a mountain town of 6000 inhabitants, is in Somerset county, famous for its buckwheat cakes and sausage.

FIND MISSING MAN

DEAD IN STABLE

Left Home Mysteriously, He Was Presumably Murdered.

Media, Pa., Feb. 29. —The body of Albert Keyser, the Rockdale young man who disappeared from his home on Jan. 10, was found, covered with straw, in a stable belonging to Jesse Smalley, below Village Green. The belief prevails that he was murdered.

The body was found by Ben Henson, a colored man. J. F. Pierce, J. F. Tyson and Harry B. Jester, farmers, went to the stable and uncovered the body. Two short heavy clubs, blood-stained, were found a short distance from where it lay at full length, with straw roughly thrown over it.

At the time Keyser disappeared from his home he was last seen with Frank Knight, for whom the police are now searching.

The authorities are very anxious to know what information Knight may have in regard to Keyser's disappearance. The authorities will not say that Keyser met with foul play, but they agree that the circumstances are suspicious. The post mortem examination is expected to show whether death was due to violence or not. The residents of Aston township who saw the body feel confident that Keyser was murdered.

Keyser was twenty-five years old and left his home in a most mysterious manner. He had considerable money on his person when he left, and there was but one cent in his pocket when searched by the deputy coroner.

Tamaqua, Pa., Woman Arrested as a Marriage Broker.

Tamaqua, Pa., Feb. 28.—Mollie F. Nahl, who is accused of having, for the past two years, carried on a matrimonial scheme by which she fleeced men from all parts of the country out of sums ranging from $5 to $150 each, was arrested here by Postoffice Inspector Schollenberger, of Pottsville and Deputy United States Marshal James Meyers, of Philadelphia. She was taken to Pottsville for a hearing.

Miss Nahl's matrimonial venture was discovered by Chief of Police George Hehn, who received a complaint from Charles N. Wang, of Linner, Mass., that Miss Nahl had secured $200 from him. Chief Hehn turned the case over to Inspector Schollenberger, and that official, together with Postmaster Preudenberger, started the hunt for evidence against her.

PINCHOT'S LASH ON BALLINGER

Secretary Denounced as Secret Foe to Conservation.

PLOT TO LOOT ALASKA

Gifford Pinchot Says He Tricked Taft and Took Cabinet Place With Deliberate Intent to Block Roosevelt Measures.

Washington, Feb. 28.—With an opening statement of what he expects to prove to the committee respecting the unfitness of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger for the place he occupies, in which he charges that Ballinger has not only striven to defeat the public interests in favor of corporate and individual greed, but that he has deceived and misled the president by false statements, Gifford Pinchot, leader of the conservation movement in the United States, began his testimony before the Ballinger investigating committee.

Pinchot's story made a profound impression on all who heard it and brought home to the spectators and probably to some members of the committee for the first time the immense economic importance of the fight and its no less tremendous political importance to the Taft administration and the Republican party. As presented by Pinchot, the case dwarfed almost into insignificance the struggle over the Cunningham coal land claims in Alaska and the relatively petty irregularities charged to the secretary of the interior and officials of the land office in connection with these. As disclosed in its full scope by the deposed chief forester, the struggle was for the loot of an empire practically incalculable in value and involving the welfare not only of millions of living, but of other millions yet unborn. Pinchot impressively declared that the questions at issue were incomparably the most momentous and vital that now confronted the American people or that would occupy the public mind for many years to come.

Turning to a direct attack on Ballinger's acts and motives, Pinchot accused the secretary of having made an explanation of his conduct to the president that was essentially false. He charged him with being a "dangerous enemy to conservation." He charged him with having made a statement shown by undisputed documentary evidence "to be absolutely false in three essential particulars." He charged him with having "willfully deceived the president" and of being disloyal to the president.

Mr. Pinchot followed up the vigorous attack made upon Secretary Ballinger in his opening statement by announcing that he fully believed in Special Agent Glavis and was convinced that all Glavis said was true. He characterized Glavis as a "faithful public servant" and declared that the facts which he presented "proved that Mr. Ballinger had been unfaithful to his trust as the guardian of public property of enormous value."

Mr. Pinchot declared that Director Newell, of the reclamation service, would be called as one of his witnesses to prove his charges against Secretary Ballinger. The former secretary of the interior, James R. Garfield, it was announced, would also be one of Mr. Pinchot's backers.

One of the most dramatic incidents of the day was left for the last half hour of the session, when Mr. Pinchot declared that there was no such decision by the comptroller of the treasury as had been cited by President Taft in his letter of Sept. 13, 1909, to Secretary Ballinger, dismissing the Glavis charges and authorizing the removal of Glavis from the service. Mr. Pinchot's implication was that President Taft had either been misled or utterly mistaken.

Under a rapid fire of questions Mr. Pinchot would not recede from this position. After his startling indictment of Ballinger in his opening statement, Pinchot proceeded under the skillful questioning of George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, one of his counsel, to give testimony orally and by the introduction of official and other documents in support of his charge that Ballinger nursed a deliberate purpose to overturn the policy of conservation, and that he had deceived his chief, President Taft, in pursuance of this plan.

This evidence tended to make it appear that Ballinger had pursued a curiously shifting and puzzling course in restoring to the public domain power site lands that had been withdrawn by his predecessor, and then withdrawing some of the lands restored to entry.

Some of the evidence made it appear that Ballinger had given as his reason for restoring certain lands to entry a decision of the comptroller of which no record could be found, and which it is Pinchot's contention was never made. This supposed decision was alluded to by the president in one of his letters to Ballinger, and this is one of the grounds on which Pinchot bases his charge that Ballinger had deceived the president.

BOMB IN PIPE KILLS TWO.

Explosion When Mining Blacksmith Hammers a Tube on Anvil.

Freeland, Pa., Feb. 28.—A charge of dynamite which in some mysterious manner found its way into a section of a two-inch water pipe exploded in the blacksmith shop of David Benjamin, a stripping contractor, at Buck Mountain, three miles east of this place, and almost wiped out an engineering corps of four men who entered the shop to get warm.

Frank Dever, chief engineer for the High Valley Coal company, was instantly killed. Joseph Gruell, a first assistant, and the chief support of a widowed mother and eight orphan brothers and sisters, had both legs blown off and died later in the Hazleton hospital. Patrick Boyle, nineteen years old, and Victor Lanitsky were severely injured by flying iron and are in a serious condition.

The building was shattered, the smithy's forge having been blown through the roof. Thomas Long, the blacksmith, who was hammering the pipe on an anvil when the explosion took place, escaped without a scratch, although driven forty feet by the force of the concussion.

How the dynamite came to be in the pipe will be a matter for investigation by the authorities. Whether it is the result of a blunder by a careless workman or a malicious plot to destroy life, animated by revenge, may be determined by the coroner's inquest.

UNION OF EASTERN BANKERS

Pennsylvania Concerns Likely Finally to Create a Guaranty.

Reading, Pa., Feb. 28.—At a meeting here of representatives of fifty country banks of eastern Pennsylvania, which was addressed by ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, William E. Holloway, president of the Hungarian American bank, of New York, and others, it was decided to organize a union.

There could be a co-operation and unity of effort, although each bank is to maintain its separate organization, the same as at present, and finally they are to create a guaranty for depositors, along the lines of the banking laws of western states. John R. Baer was elected president.

NEW WAY TO REMOVE TACKS FROM YOUR BODY

The X-Ray and Long Forceps Turn the Trick

New York, Feb. 28.—A new way of removing tacks and various foreign substances from people's insides was discovered by the surgeons of Bethel hospital. Nine-year-old Jacob Miller was brought to the hospital by his father, who said that his son was suffering from some mysterious sickness that had puzzled all the doctors in the neighborhood. The boy had been losing steadily and was in a very weak state. They examined Jacob and then, asked him a great many questions about his history. They found that about six weeks ago Jacob had been putting up pictures with thumb tacks and had accidentally swallowed one of the tacks. He had kept mighty quiet about the affair for fear of being punished.

The patient was promptly marched into the X-ray room and the tack was located in his right bronchus. Then a fluoroscope screen was placed on Jacob's chest and an incision was made into the windpipe. By means of the shadow on the screen the doctors were able to observe the progress of a long pull of delicate forceps that had been introduced into the windpipe. The shadow of the forceps was seen to touch the shadow of the tack, and the rest was easy. Jacob is all right now.

MORAN-MURPHY FIGHT

Winner of Today's Battle May Meet Wolgast For Championship.

New York, Feb. 28.—A fight of international flavor will take place in San Francisco today, when Owen Moran, of England, and Harlan Tommy Murphy, of this city, clash in a twenty-round bout at lightweight. They will settle their differences at the Shasta A. C. Moran and Murphy, oddly enough, have trimmed Wolgast, the new lightweight champion. In bouts with no decisions. Moran easily disposed of Wolgast in ten rounds at a local club in 1908, while Murphy had a clear advantage in a six-round affair in Pittsburgh last September. The winner of today's fight therefore will be considered in line for a battle with either Nelson or Wolgast.

LABOR VOTES GENERAL STRIKE

90,000 Union Men to be Called Out in Philadelphia.

FATAL SUNDAY RIOTS

Two Dead, Several Dying and Scores Injured in Outbreaks in Quaker City—Policemen Beaten—Transit Service Demoralized.

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—The strike against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company has spread to all labor unions in the city. The Central Labor union, with hardly a dissenting voice, voted for a general strike to go into effect next Saturday.

The decision of the union bosses followed a day of almost continuous rioting, in which a man and a boy were killed and sixty persons were hurt. The trouble spread over the entire southeastern section of the city and flared up generally wherever police protection was inadequate. It was one of the worst days Philadelphia has suffered since the carmen walked out.

The order for a general sympathetic strike was determined on as the only means to force the Rapid Transit company to arbitrate with its men. The action of the Central Labor union puts it up to the individual unions to vote whether they want to strike. As a matter of fact, most of them have voted already to go out.

The danger lies in this, that the striking carmen will have the active help of perhaps 90,000 idle men, a restless, dissatisfied force, that may produce far more disorder than the city has yet seen. The resumption of rioting was caused largely by the certainty that a general strike order would be the result of the labor meeting.

The first serious fighting was in Manayunk, along Main street. A crowd of 2000 men and boys stoned a car, driving the motorman and conductor before them. The few policemen who were in the neighborhood were helpless. They were cuffed and beaten and ridiculed. Car after car was attacked, its windows smashed with stones and the passengers forced to run for their own safety. Fifty policemen responded to the first riot call, but there were not enough of them to handle the mob. Another squad of fifty came up, and for fifteen minutes there was a hand-to-hand battle. Thomas Wagner, a sixteen-year-old boy, was shot in the left breast and was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. Another boy was shot in the hand. Sergeant Frank Zimm, of the police, was knocked senseless with a brick. The doctors reported that he had a fractured skull.

Policeman Thomas Ray was struck with a brick, which broke his jaw. Ray was guarding a car at Tenth and South streets. He started to shoot into a crowd which had surrounded a car and bombarded it, but before he could get his revolver pumping a brick had knocked him senseless.

A number of persons were hurt in a fight between the police and a crowd at Girard avenue and Fourth streets. The trouble was started by boys. In less than ten minutes four policemen were backed up against a wall dodging bricks. They shot into the mob and finally brought down Thomas Kershaw, one of the rioters, with a bullet in his neck. When reinforcements arrived the police charged into the mob and clubbed savagely. Half a dozen persons went to the hospital out of this fight.

Rioting Was Widespread.

The lower southeast was ablaze with trouble all day. Since the coming of the state constables the discontent and disorderly had been overruled. The news that a sympathetic strike was to be called gave the brick throwers nerve enough to start bombarding the cars again.

Along Fifth and Sixth streets thousands of people lined the sidewalks, hooting the non-uniform motormen and conductors and occasionally throwing stones. Sometimes the rioters had to be summoned to free cars that had been held up. But the rioters could not be every place at once. They were patrolling a wide stretch of territory, and the mobs took advantage of their difficulties.

CAPTAIN HIDES MAN WHO SHOT

Won't Name Constable Who Killed Innocent Man.

PREPARING FOR TROUBLE

More Rioting Is Expected at Schwab's Steel Plant When Work Is Resumed. Works an Armed Fort.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 28.—Armed peace prevails in South Bethlehem, with the state troopers in undisputed command of the situation. But both the police and strikers have been busy concentrating their forces in preparation for the struggle which is expected to attend the opening of the Bethlehem steel plant.

A sharp clash occurred between Coroner James Goheen, of Lehigh county, and Captain J. F. Robinson, of Troop B, when the latter refused to divulge the identity of the subordinate who fired the shot which killed Szambo on Saturday. He was killed by the trooper, but had not been involved in any disturbance. He was standing at the bar of the Majestic hotel when the disturbance was going on outside. The shot of the trooper went wild, smashed through a window and imbedded itself in Szambo's brain.

The coroner empanelled his jury and they viewed the body. The coroner then summoned Burgess O. L. Peyer and Chief Hugh Kelly, of the local police, and together the three went to the offices of the steel company.

Coroner Clashes With Captain.

After establishing their identity the three officials were passed through the line of troopers and admitted. They entered the office of E. R. Grace, general manager of the works, and for half an hour remained in conversation. When they came out the coroner was flushed and perturbed. Questioned, he said that he had demanded of Captain Robinson the name of the trooper who had killed Szambo, and said the captain had refused to divulge the identity of his subordinate.

"He told me that if I wanted to know who the man was to find him, and so I'm going over to Allentown to consult with District Attorney William M. McKee to see what steps I can take to compel the information to be given."

"Yes," answered Captain Robinson, when questioned, "the coroner did demand the name of the man who fired the shot, but I was compelled by force of circumstances to withhold it. Because of the unsettled conditions here it would be unfair to my trooper, as an individual, to make his name public. He might be harmed by the angry friends of the dead man. However, when things are more quiet I will make the desired answer to the question asked me, but not until then."

The One Witness Gone.

Only one witness has been summoned by the coroner. He is Joe Gernung, the bartender who had served Szambo with beer just before he was shot. It may be difficult to apprehend the bartender, however, since he disappeared immediately after the shooting.

Captain Robinson now has twenty prisoners locked in the cellar of the steel company's office waiting a hearing before a local justice.

Constable Cullin, who drew a revolver on a trooper and who was instantly arrested, is among the number.

The captain does not think any more troops will be imported the present force, augmented by the 200 deputies sworn in by Sheriff Robert Person being sufficient. The troopers and deputies are all quartered on the company's plant ready for instant duty. Sheriff Person seems to be under the hands of the company's officials, who are using his office to direct the defensive forces.

MORE SOLDIERS TEST GERMS

Fort Mott Men Take Typhoid Into Their Systems.

Salem, N. J., Feb. 28.—Two hundred men in the garrison at Fort Mott, near this city, have been inoculated with typhoid fever germs. The army men volunteered to be "shot" with the germs under the tests the surgeons are making among the men of the regular army. Some of the men have millions of germs under their skins and few of them relish them.

Headaches, backaches, sore arms, stiff legs and other complaints have followed the "shooting" process. All those who have been inoculated have been excused from duty when the germs make them ill. The treatment will be continued for several days. The inoculation is being made as an experiment for the prevention of typhoid fever among the soldiers.

Sees His Children Killed.

Brookville, Pa., Feb. 28.—Standing by a railroad track, his wife unconscious on the ground near him, William Carrier saw a locomotive crush the lives of his two children. Carrier and his family were in a sleigh which had overturned on a crossing just as a freight was bearing down. A five-year-old son and an eight-year-old daughter had been tumbled in front of the locomotive and run over before the father could rescue them.

CAPTAIN HIDES MAN WHO SHOT

Won't Name Constable Who Killed Innocent Man.

PREPARING FOR TROUBLE

More Rioting Is Expected at Schwab's Steel Plant When Work Is Resumed. Works an Armed Fort.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 28.—Armed peace prevails in South Bethlehem, with the state troopers in undisputed command of the situation. But both the police and strikers have been busy concentrating their forces in preparation for the struggle which is expected to attend the opening of the Bethlehem steel plant.

A sharp clash occurred between Coroner James Goheen, of Lehigh county, and Captain J. F. Robinson, of Troop B, when the latter refused to divulge the identity of the subordinate who fired the shot which killed Szambo on Saturday. He was killed by the trooper, but had not been involved in any disturbance. He was standing at the bar of the Majestic hotel when the disturbance was going on outside. The shot of the trooper went wild, smashed through a window and imbedded itself in Szambo's brain.

The coroner empanelled his jury and they viewed the body. The coroner then summoned Burgess O. L. Peyer and Chief Hugh Kelly, of the local police, and together the three went to the offices of the steel company.

Coroner Clashes With Captain.

After establishing their identity the three officials were passed through the line of troopers and admitted. They entered the office of E. R. Grace, general manager of the works, and for half an hour remained in conversation. When they came out the coroner was flushed and perturbed. Questioned, he said that he had demanded of Captain Robinson the name of the trooper who had killed Szambo, and said the captain had refused to divulge the identity of his subordinate.

"He told me that if I wanted to know who the man was to find him, and so I'm going over to Allentown to consult with District Attorney William M. McKee to see what steps I can take to compel the information to be given."

"Yes," answered Captain Robinson, when questioned, "the coroner did demand the name of the man who fired the shot, but I was compelled by force of circumstances to withhold it. Because of the unsettled conditions here it would be unfair to my trooper, as an individual, to make his name public. He might be harmed by the angry friends of the dead man. However, when things are more quiet I will make the desired answer to the question asked me, but not until then."

The One Witness Gone.

Only one witness has been summoned by the coroner. He is Joe Gernung, the bartender who had served Szambo with beer just before he was shot. It may be difficult to apprehend the bartender, however, since he disappeared immediately after the shooting.

Captain Robinson now has twenty prisoners locked in the cellar of the steel company's office waiting a hearing before a local justice.

Constable Cullin, who drew a revolver on a trooper and who was instantly arrested, is among the number.

The captain does not think any more troops will be imported the present force, augmented by the 200 deputies sworn in by Sheriff Robert Person being sufficient. The troopers and deputies are all quartered on the company's plant ready for instant duty. Sheriff Person seems to be under the hands of the company's officials, who are using his office to direct the defensive forces.

MORE SOLDIERS TEST GERMS

Fort Mott Men Take Typhoid Into Their Systems.

Salem, N. J., Feb. 28.—Two hundred men in the garrison at Fort Mott, near this city, have been inoculated with typhoid fever germs. The army men volunteered to be "shot" with the germs under the tests the surgeons are making among the men of the regular army. Some of the men have millions of germs under their skins and few of them relish them.

Headaches, backaches, sore arms, stiff legs and other complaints have followed the "shooting" process. All those who have been inoculated have been excused from duty when the germs make them ill. The treatment will be continued for several days. The inoculation is being made as an experiment for the prevention of typhoid fever among the soldiers.
